

Hello Dancers

Now we are into winter, it is sometimes so easy to come home from work and sink into a comfy armchair in front of the fire and not venture out again.

Thankfully, enough of you make the effort and are rewarded with the chance to socialise with fellow crazy people whose enthusiasm overcomes that feeling.

After twenty years of committing to EVERY Thursday, racking our brains to ensure the music and teaching are as good as we can achieve, we still get a kick out of seeing the “regulars” come through the door week after week.

We can all remember our first night and do sympathise with those who have plucked up the courage to make it along for the first time. Probably the most frequent comment we hear from people leaving after their “first night” is that “everyone is so friendly” which is the essence of what we are about. The aim is to give confidence initially so that it becomes easier to absorb the instruction.

It's really not important to remember all you are taught in the lessons. You start to learn once you gain the confidence to relax about all the things you are doing wrong and start enjoying learning a great new skill.

Over the years we've had literally thousands of people come through the doors, many of whom still attend regularly whilst others continue until they have learnt enough for what they need. Some people take to it like a duck to water and others need that extra bit of help.

We are very lucky in that the vast majority of those attending have never forgotten their “first night” and they recognise the anxious looks from “newbies” and instinctively help out. They genuinely want to help.

We are generally not troubled by snow and ice but, if we do get heavy falls, please ensure you join the Newquay Jive Facebook Group in order that we can notify you of any problems. It's also a great way to find out where the various social groups within Newquay Jive intend to be on nights out or special events like the Warmwell Dance weekender. Sometimes we put together a group holiday with dancing as well. One particular group have recently been raising eyebrows in Alicante!!

We have events over the Christmas to keep you going, culminating with our famous “Thank God it's Over” Party on 4th January.

We hope everyone has a very merry Christmas (some of you have been very merry already!) and look forward to helping you continue to develop your skills in 2020.
